P: Hey! Are you all right?

M: Hey~ Are-you-all-right? French-Bonjour-Nooo ..... Japanese – Konichiwa – No.....
Chinese – Ni How – Noooo..... Hello – English – Yes!

P: What are you doing? Who are you?

M: My name is Minna. I'm from planet _____. I'm looking for my family, but my UFO is broken. Now, I'm very hungry and I can't find my family without my UFO! What can I do?
(crying...)

P: Oh, you poor little thing. How about this? I'm making dinner. I can make some food for you, then you can fix your UFO later.

M: Oh, you're so kind... (still crying)

P: Stop crying. Let's make some food together. What do you want to eat?

M: I want some rock cake! Rock cake.... Rock cake.....

P: Yuck! What's that? We don't eat that on earth.

M: How about some tree biscuits?

P: No~you must be kidding. I will make some spaghetti for you.

M: What's that?

P: It's a traditional food in Italy. It's delicious.

M: Okay....(says sadly)

P: Let's make tomato spaghetti.

M: OK. What are we going to do?

P: First, we need to know the ingredients for the spaghetti.

M: What do we need?

P: we need flour, eggs, salt, onions, basil leaves, ground pork, tomatoes, pasta and tomato sauce.

M: Wow! There are a lot.

P: Of course. Next are the golden rules of how to make good spaghetti sauce.

M: How?

P: First, we cut the onions, tomatoes into pieces. Then we cook them with ground pork.

M: What's next?

P: We add the tomato sauce to it.

M: Then we cook the pasta, put on the sauce and add the basil leaves?

P: Yes. You are smart!

M: Can we eat it now?

P: Not yet. I'm gonna tell you something.

M: What?

P: You need to know the cooking time. You need to cook the onions, tomatoes and ground pork for 5 minutes.

M: Oh! So they will have flavor.

P: You should cook the pasta for 8 minutes.

M: Okay!

P: Now it's time to try my masterpiece.

M: Oh, I can't wait to eat the spaghetti. I'm starving. (eats the spaghetti)

M: Gosh! It's too delicious! (faints)

P: Hey~Are you OK? Oh no! I killed an alien.

M/P: Thanks. We hope you enjoyed our performance.
